Professional Profile

Dr. Darleen Claire Wodzinski is a licensed clinician, doctoral-level psychoneuroeducational interventionist, educator, and author whose work integrates mind, body, heart, and spirit. Her path began at home as a parent and non-denominational pastoral counselor, in deep study of the works of Dr. T. Berry Brazelton, Mr. Fred Rogers, and Dr. John Bradshaw, alongside sacred and spiritual teachings from around the world. Long before any formal credential, she was already discovering that the words we give children become the voice they carry inside for a lifetime.

That insight carried her into the special education classroom, where she found that Wholly Creative Communication served every child and not only those with exceptional needs, and then into clinical mental health counseling and doctoral study of an integrated psychoneuroeducational paradigm for human healing, growth, and development. Running alongside that clinical and educational work has been a lifelong inquiry into the wisdom of the body — Educational Kinesiology and Brain Gym, Health Kinesiology, Naturopathy, Yoga, and Qi Gong. Long before somatic work became a clinical buzzword, Dr. Darleen understood that healing begins in the body, and that every word we speak lands there first.

Today she is the founder of Orchard Human Services, Inc. and the Psychoneuroeducational Institute, LLC, an NBCC-Approved Continuing Education Provider (ACEP #7260). She is the creator of the Fluid Trauma™ and Human Superpower™ healing paradigms, and Purple Cape is the digital home where everything she has built across a lifetime of service now lives and grows.
